CHAIRMAN'S ABRIDGED STATEMENT

TRANSFORMING LIVES THE SAFARICOM WAY

Despite some macro-economic uncertainties during the year, the Business remained resilient and delivered solid results. Of concern were the drought that affected parts of the country, creeping inflation, election year disruptions as well as regulatory pressure. I am however happy to report that despite these concerns, we are confident that we are well placed to weather any storm.

The regulatory environment remains an area of utmost importance to our operations. In the second half of the financial year, we witnessed heightened concerns by investors on the likely impact of regulatory interventions in the telecommunications sub-sector. This followed a report that the Communications Authority of Kenya (CA) had commissioned a study on competition within the sub sector.

We continue to engage the authorities and especially the CA prior to the finalisation of the report and its recommendations.

Shifts in the competitive landscape, with new forms of competition emerging even from non-telco players, means that we have to continuously innovate and stay ahead of the curve. Competition from other industry players also means we must continue differentiating our products, and delivering solutions to our customers that gives us an edge.

During the year, Vodafone, one of our key shareholders, made a decision to transfer a significant portion of its shareholding to Vodacom, its South African subsidiary. We see this as an opportunity for Safaricom to take services such as mobile payments into other African countries.

We remain steadfast in delivering on our strategy and growing shareholders' wealth as we pursue our purpose of transforming lives.

CEO'S ABRIDGED COMMENTARY

OUR COUNTRY, OUR STORY

Safaricom exists to fulfil a purpose. That purpose is to transform lives, and over the last year, we have continued to emphasise and implement transformative strategies that touch the lives of our shareholders, customers, staff members and other stakeholders. We believe this is what prompted over three million customers to join our network during the year.

Our strategic imperatives dictate that we align closely with our long-term objective of creating a more equitable society. We have linked our strategy to the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), of which we have adopted nine. This will help us in becoming a better company, make a meaningful impact on the communities that have given us a license to serve, and, most importantly re-focus our energies on things that really matter.

During the year, we refreshed our brand by integrating the mantra "TWaweza". We feel this encapsulates our core belief, "when we come together great things happen." We recognize the value of partnerships between Safaricom and our shareholders, customers, business partners, our staff members and the society.

Within our organization, creating value is grounded on our strategy, which is guided by three pillars; Customer First, Relevant Products, and Operational Excellence. We made considerable effort to fine tune our service delivery, by creating and launching new products that are transformative for our customers.

None of these achievements would be possible without sustained focus on building a future-proof network. Our core business remains to deliver first class connectivity for voice, SMS, data, M-PESA and deepen enterprise use of technology.

At Safaricom, we believe our Purpose is to empower Kenyans. We know that we have the right mix of talent and technology to provide transformative innovation, with one goal in mind: Transforming Lives.
